Career Objective

More than three years ago, I became interested in programming, but only a little over a year ago I started actively learning technologies and languages related to web development, with a strong desire to change my profession and become a software developer. Lately, I've been paying special attention to learning JS frameworks such as React.js on the client side and Node.js on the server side. Currently, I am looking for an opportunity to demonstrate my skills, and gain new knowledge and experience in software programming.
